Subject: Go Big Or Go Home

Go Big Or Go Home....

With reluctance one accesses Russian TV, but corporate-owned mainstream media provides political placebo rather than news that impacts the U. S. public.

Go Big Or Go Home....

NYS's Governor Cuomo, it was clear, was enthusiastic to introduce fracking into our home. The environmental information generated by concerned local community members, created the weight to suggest his better course would be for the NYS DOH to gather information on fracking, and so determine whether the practice could prove harmful to people and environment. That Governor Cuomo handed this decision over to those with the information, is to his credit---

https://www.health.ny.gov/press/releases/2014/2014-12-17_fracking_report.htm

Many politicians and bureaucrats have placed personal interest and greed over the health and welfare of the public, and have ignored the effects of fracking. The first step toward sanity would be to inform oneself and the public, about that which kills---

A subject for contempt by environmentalists was former NYC Mayor Bloomberg in his enthusiasm to frack NYS, just not near his home---

<http://www.nydailynews.com/blogs/dailypolitics/mayor-bloomberg-supports-fracking-nyc-watershed-blog-entry-1.1689190>

Hmmm....the Tillerson Syndrome, one may say....NIMBY, but in yours.

<https://protectingourwaters.wordpress.com/2014/02/24/exxon-ceo-rex-tillerson-sues-to-stop-fracking-near-his-home/>

For all those who don't recognize the environmental degradation as their problem, consider the endocrine disruptor. Reports suggest chemicals that industry call proprietary, and so will not divulge, may be endocrine disruptors----<http://www.ciel.org/news/disruptedcriteria/>

Why does one wish their endocrines not to be disrupted? A short but incomplete list-----cancer, obesity, and mood transformation, not for the better, in young people, particularly males, as has been reported. But marijuana is outlawed....go figure.

The U. S., once a leader around the Globe, will ensure Banana Republic status as Wall St. investors put on the brakes to renewable and sustainable energy development, in order to pander to the 1%---

The only conceivable reason to bury heads in the sand, is privilege and greed--

<http://www.foodandwaterwatch.org/news/who's-banking-dakota-access-pipeline>

The Democratic Establishment is silly as they attempt to elbow their way to the front of the grassroots and serious public defense of human rights and environmental rights. Silly because their promotion of capitalism is the weapon against human rights and environmental rights----

<http://www.commondreams.org/views/2017/02/27/cpac-and-dnc-party-not-movement>

One is, to some extent, relieved in the choice of Perez over Ellison for no other reason other than it verifies the perspective of the DNC as consisting of the privileged and greedy promoting their Establishment interests.

Okay, this is a great lead-in to the topic of this email....Thank you Bill Gates---- <http://www.truth-out.org/opinion/item/39626-bill-gates-is-clueless-on-the-economy> -- One wonders at the psychotic need of the 1% to keep the 99% helpless and groveling. What's up with that???? Yes, I'm laughing, here. Wasn't buying that long-nosed, hot red car enough?

A better use of The Economy can be exemplified in Basic Income.

Basic Income would provide a baseline survival income to U. S. citizens, probably at age 18, for example, unencumbered by requirements to stand in welfare lines that are time consuming and humiliating, senseless training for jobs that are often bubbles and destroys self-esteem, and the Basic Income would not be effected by income of one's own legal generation.

This would create several economic advantages to U. S. citizens, who are not consumers and are not human resources, but actual humanity----

- * Free up energy and time to consider personal interests and genius
- * Allow for free benefits to society, such as childbirth, family care, care for the elderly, volunteering within the local community and political involvement
- * Motivation to engage in The Economy would imply the public will understand the notion of being a self-starter
- * The bureaucracy that now maintains the welfare system could provide the cost for this new Economy
- * We would finally acknowledge The Economy is more than Wall St., and act accordingly
- * The basic income dollars would go immediately and directly back into local communities by way of survival for families
- * This dollar influx into local community would act as all vibrant Economies act, they provide stability for all. The Economy should be about stability, not growth
- * The constipated Economy the U. S. has manufactured by capitalists ensure all the money is held in the bowels of the 1%. This is unhealthy.
- * Basic Income would provide equality and justice for all, by ensuring the children of everyone has a chance of surviving and thriving, rather than just the children of the 1%
- * Presumption to equality and justice for all could be healthy for everyone
- * Local law enforcement could return to their mission of protecting and serving, rather than their 1%'er-mandated use as protectors of wealth and privilege, as manifested at Standing Rock and in too many minority communities

And so, due to the ownership of pundits by capitalism in corporate-owned mainstream media news, one turns to Russian TV and is greeted with ideas ---- https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Don_Edward_Beck -- The Spiral Perspective may be more egalitarian than the Rainbow Movement, although why not have a Rainbow-Spiral Perspective? Manifesting into real-time, this could generate a better America.

Go Big Or Go Home! Long and Loud!!!

In Solidarity in others of deeply divulging concerns, but all based on human rights and/or environmental rights---
